

Viola jones algorithm is one of the most powerful algorithm used in computer vision. This algorithm makes use of haar features to distinguish a human face from a non-human face. It identifies edge features, line features and four-rectangle features on the face and matches the relative position of objects identified in the image to detect a human face.